TROUBLE IN THE KITCHENS
Rarely has compromise been effected in the meat rationing situation, but trouble has broken out in a new and, it must be added, a very important quarter.

For the last week and more, lard and fats have been unavailable by local housewives and cooks in either stores or butcher shops; so much so, that from a kitchen standpoint the outlook is bleak indeed. No more will be handed out upon the breakfast table, or as the butchers' order for supper; neither will the two eggs any longer appear upon the table, or for the breakfast table. As is available is invariably and lamentably destitute of fat. There's no joke about this matter. Take away the fats from our kitchens, and the best of cooks are sunk.

The question may be asked: "Why not use butter?" But, aside from some technical objections, surely that is to be forgetful of the inexorable limitations of the average ration book. We have been informed that the reason for these famine-like conditions in the finest stock-raising province of the dominion, is due to an order from Ottawa freezing both lard and fat as from Monday of last week; and while it is true that while living knowledge, this wonderful province was built up by a generation existing mainly on a diet of porridge and soy bolly, today we are supposed to be living in an age of progress.

"Progress!" What a wealth of meaning is conveyed by so small a word. The conditions of today are the results of war, we know; and like everything else, each new war becomes a bigger and a better war. World War II has seen tremendous changes in both military and civil life as compared with World War I. The imagination begins when confronted with the thought of forecasting the progress to be endured in World War III!

FEEDING EUROPE
"Crops this year in Europe are much below normal. Half the population of France is undernourished. Infant mortality has gone up 50 per cent. A quarter of a million farms have been damaged or destroyed. One hundred million German miles dot the soil, preventing cultivation."

These facts, quoted by M. Raoul Dautry, Minister of Reconstruction in the French Provisional Government, high light Europe's big problem. What are the people going to eat next winter?

Victory on an empty belly is not much fun.

Sometimes we Canadians are prone to blame the Europeans for the mess they are in and to suggest they can find their own way out of it. Do we ever stop to think that, if it weren't for their suffering and suffering, we would not have had time to prepare for final victory? Would we get off lightly in another war when atomic rockets would be the chief weapons?

Mr. Churchill has recently said: "The bomb brought peace, but man alone can keep the peace. In the next three years we must remodel the relationships of all men of all nations in such a way that international bodies by supreme authority may give peace on earth and justice among men. Our pilgrimage has brought us to a sublime moment in the history of the human race."

Canadians ranked fourth in war production among the United Nations. Surely our potential leadership can be given credit with that. With a great common purpose can we not further develop the national unity which has withstood two wars?

In the next few years Europe will need clothing and machinery. Her need is our chance to prove that Democracy is more than lip service to an idea.

M. Dautry may well be looking to us, when he says: "The United States at an end, our European civilization is undergoing a moral crisis without parallel in its history. Everything has been shaken by the war. Everything is open to question. The peoples of Europe are looking for solid and lasting principles which will guide them towards a life of peace and understanding with their own and between nations."

"Time Bombs"

The atom bomb leaves no alternative. We must give up or blow up.

Some people say they'd give their share to bring in a new world. But they don't want to let it financially or take of their own life, fight for it.

Unlike, in some homes, democracy is reborn every day, it will vanish from the face of the earth.

To promote good will, donate self.

It is better to let me tell the truth in the beginning.

Build into the pool of the farmer and he'll build into the soil of the farm.

Marriage vows forgotten result in unfortunate marriage ruin.

When we do more than to heart talking with the silent fellow, we'll do him instead his own work.

THAT JACK WROTE...

this is the Branch Bank where Jack keeps his money—so he does not have to keep his savings at home with the danger of loss, fire, or theft, and can pay bills safely and conveniently by cheque.

this is the Teller in a branch of a different bank in another city, who made sure that the man who presented the cheque was really the man Jack intended to pay. Then the amount of the cheque was added to that man's deposit account.

this is the Clearing House maintained by the banks so that customers' cheques can be exchanged and the banks can settle their accounts with one another every day. From here, Jack's cheque was sent to the clearing department of his own bank, and from there to the branch where Jack keeps his account.

this is the Ledger-keeper who made sure that the signature was really Jack's. Then he debited Jack's account. The amount is entered in Jack's passbook next time he comes in, so he always knows exactly where he stands.

This is a sketchy outline of what happens when you pay an out-of-town bill by cheque. Many people pay their large local bills that way too. To be able to pay by cheque is a tremendous convenience which costs you little or nothing. Banks are the bookkeepers for millions of our fellow-Canadians.
